I believe this answers the question if Illinois determined the disability or social security.

Illinois Department of Human Services Disability Determination Services

What is the purpose of this service?

We are responsible for determining the eligibility of Illinois citizens to receive benefits under Social Security's disability programs. These programs are Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) and Supplemental Security Income (SSI).

From the files I sent it looks like the state of Illinois partners with social security and both share information about the medical when determining disability And the only final decision comes from social security and the state of Illinois accepts the finding.

This was all confusing to me back then and is still confusing today so the most accurate statement for number 3 in the affidavit was my proposed change to it unless you can find something in the IDHS or social security files saying otherwise.
