The best 3 resources I could find on this question are these:

"The Barton Doctrine's Applicability to Suits Against Bankruptcy Trustees When the Bankruptcy Court Lacks Jurisdiction Over the Matter" by Chelsea Frankel - St. John's University School of Law

"A Chapter 7 Trustee's Qualified Right of Immunity May Be No Shield for Intentional, Negligent, or Grossly Negligent Conduct: Analyzing and Applying the Three-Way Circuit Split" by Nataniel E. Arabov - St. John's University School of Law (attached)

Tufts v Hay (attached)

Other possible information (not attached):

"Should the Eleventh Circuit Hold the Barton Doctrine Applicable After a Case Has Been Closed" by Paul A. Avron

"You Can't Sue Me": Preclusion of Claims Against Professionals by HD Hale, A Carson - American Bankruptcy Institute Journal, 2017

"Personal Liability of Trustees and Debtors in Possession: Review of the Varying Standards of Care in the United States" by David W. Allard

"Permission to Sue: Applying the Barton Doctrine to Unsecured Creditors' Committee Members" By Andrew A. dePeAu
